Binus International School Serpong conducts Bynamic Fest 2011

Seven to 12 grade students of Binus International School Serpong organized the school's biennial creativity festival, Bynamic Fest 2011. The festival, bringing art, culture and environmental concerns together, ran from Aug. 1 to Sept. 17 with support and cooperation from many parties, including international non-profit organizations such as WWF and Greenpeace, as well as other national communities from kindergarten to university level.

"We choose as our theme art, culture and environment related to Indonesia. Through this event, we are trying to instill Indonesian values in the young generation and kindle their love for the nation and its culture," said Bynamic Fest 2011 chief organizer Ravta Parawansa, who is in grade 12.

The festival transformed Binus International School Serpong into five zones representing Indonesia: the Nation Heritage zone, the Green zone, the People's Party zone, the Olden Days zone, and the Nation's Children's Festival zone. Different performances were staged in each zone. For instance, Nation Heritage zone hosted art exhibitions, cultural dances and traditional food stalls; while the Nation's Child Festival zone staged band concerts and fashion shows.

Although taking place at the school, Bynamic Fest 2011 invited other schools around Tangerang and Jakarta to participate. The festival was officially opened by South Tangerang Mayor Airin Rachmi Diany and representatives of the tourism agency attended.
